Students studying this course say:

Being assessed during the course, rather than in exams at the end of 2 years helped me to understand my progress.

The skills I developed has helped enormously in my university course—from research, presentation to time management.

I consider taking Business Studies as one of the most important subjects I have taken.

Trinity Sixth Form BTEC Level 3 Business

What is the level of course I will take?

This is a Level 3 course that has different A Level equivalencies depending on the qualification undertaken. These range from 1 AS to 3 A Level weightings.

The higher the weighting, the more units to be completed. This includes a range of externally assessed units (coursework) and externally assessed units

How will I be assessed?

The course is assessed through a mixture of internally and externally assessed units. The number of units to be studied depends on the weighting you are undertaking.

There is one 'traditional' exam "Personal and Business Finance", whilst the other external assessments are based on a case study for which you have to develop your response during a set write up window. The remaining units are internally set and assessed.

How will the course help me after Sixth Form?

As you will learn about a range of issues surrounding the world of business in the 21st Century developing a wide range of skills a BTEC Business qualification opens the door to a wide range of careers, further education and training.

Previous students have gone on to university (including RG Universities) to study Law, Journalism, Sociology, Economics, Marketing, Sports Science.

Other students have progressed onto higher level Apprenticeships and Management Training schemes.

What will I learn?

Whilst there are mandatory units to be completed including

- Exploring Business
- Developing a Marketing Campaign
- Personal and Business Finance
- Managing an Event

There are optional units which have been developed to allow the qualification to become personalised to allow students to develop within their own interests.

These include

- Accounting
- Law
- Marketing
- HR
- Customer service
- Merchandising
- Social Responsibility
- Decision making
- Principles of management

The course has been developed to allow for students to undertake a personalised pathway rather than having to follow a set specification.

How will I learn?

You will learn through a range of methods including traditional lessons, presentations, individual and group research both online and using text books. Each lesson is designed to allow you to meet an assessment criteria for each unit being studied.

A range of real case studies are used as this subject/qualification is about how and why real businesses are making the decisions they do today.
